

Traveling with Kids

Adventure. Place. Connection. Aboard an UnCruise small ship, families explore wild places, make discoveries, and learn—while having fun together. Family members across generations experience extraordinary, memory-making moments with one another.

Each kid travels differently and only you, their parent or guardian, know your child's specific interests and comfort zones. We want you and all of our guests—from 8 to 98!—to fully enjoy our style of adventure travel. The guidelines provided below will help ensure that all of our guests have a safe and happy experience. Let the fun begin!

GENERAL INFORMATION:

- Parents and/or guardians are responsible for their children at all times.
- There are no childcare services available and no dedicated kid's playrooms.
- Due to the nature of our outdoor explorations, kids-only or family-only excursions are generally not feasible.

ACTIVITIES:

- Our guides advise and recommend activities to guests based on their interests and experience—adults and kids alike. We may ask for your child's weight, height, and experience in kayaking, hiking, snorkeling, etc. to make best recommendations.
- Children may participate in any activity suited to their ability level.
- Parents/guardians are expected to accompany and partner with their children during activities.
- Kids need proper outdoor clothing and footwear for activities (rain gear, waterproof boots, hiking boots, sun hat, etc.) appropriate for their destination. Pack accordingly; these items are not available onboard.

SAFETY/PFDs (Personal Flotation Devices, aka life jackets):

- Weights of kids under 90lbs must be provided at the time of booking to ensure proper fitting PFDs.
- Type 1 PFDs are provided.
- Type 3 PFDs are provided for kids over 30lbs. For kids under 30lbs, bring your own USCG-approved recreational Type 3 PFD for better fit/comfort.
- See examples of the types of PFDs in the Family Travel FAQs at UnCruise.Com/Family-Travel
- All families traveling with children must attend the safety briefing.
- Always be aware of your child's location and activities—children should not be left unattended.
- No running allowed on board the vessel; weather can make decks slippery.
- Off the vessel, a parent/guardian must accompany their child. Kids must stay with the group and not get ahead of their guide.

COMMON AREAS:

- The ship has crew-only areas not open to the public. The captain will announce off-limits areas during the safety briefing. Be sure your child is aware of these areas.
- Common areas like the lounge or library are open to all guests 24 hours a day. Crew may announce presentation times in these areas or "quiet hours". Be sure your child is aware and courteous of these times/activities.
- Kids must be supervised when using the hot tub and exercise equipment.

CABINS:

- Most standard cabins have two twin-size beds. Triple cabins have either a fold-out sofa or small daybed.
- Cabins have limited storage space and are not equipped with cribs or bed rails.
- Private refrigerators are only available in a few cabin categories aboard: Safari Explorer, Safari Voyager, Safari Endeavour, S.S. Legacy, and Wilderness Explorer.

DINING ROOM:

- Most kids choose meals from the daily menu, though other tasty choices are available, such as PB&J, chicken tenders, crudité with ranch dip, or mac-n-cheese. Menus vary—ask your server.
- There is one dining area for all guests. Parents/guardians are expected to supervise their kids during meals.
